

1 July 2014 at 7:41pm

Bristol venues to benefit from increased art funding

The Arts Council has announced a shake up of where its funding will be distributed in the West. It'll lead to an extra 1.4 million pounds being invested in the region
In Bristol, amongst those receiving an increase are St George's and the Bristol Music Trust, which runs The Colston Hall.

But the Arnolfini Arts Centre will receive a drop in funding.

In Cheltenham, the Everyman Theatre will receive new grants as will the organisation Swindon Dance. Bob Cruwys reports.

Last updated Tue 1 Jul 2014

To view the video follow this link:

<http://www.itv.com/news/west/update/2014-07-01/bristol-venues-to-benefit-from-increased-art-funding/>